

Conditions for remaining on the course

All the subjects have four rounds of exams, plus an exceptional resit exam under special circumstances.

First to second year

Eligible to enroll in the second year:

Students with a maximum of 15 failed ECTS during the first year in compulsory and/or basic training, after the first two rounds of exams, without taking English I into account in this calculation.

Eligible to repeat the first year:

Students with between 16 and 24 ECTS credits pending from first-year compulsory and/or basic training subjects, without taking English I into account in this calculation. In this case, students will only repeat the pending subjects and the workload will be supplemented by electives.

Required to leave the degree programme:

Students who fail 25 or more ECTS credits in the first year in both compulsory and/or basic training subjects, following the established rounds of exams, without taking English I into account in this calculation.

Second to third year

Eligible to move on to the third year are those students with a maximum of 20 ECTS credits failed in compulsory and/or basic training subjects from the second year, after the first two rounds of exams.

Students with first-year subjects pending will not be eligible to go on to the third year.

Students can repeat second year only once, provided that they have not repeated the first year.

Third to fourth year

Eligible to move on to the fourth year are those students with a maximum of 20 ECTS credits failed in previous years in compulsory and/or basic training subjects.

Students can repeat third year only once, provided that they have not repeated first or second year.
