SEATTLE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF LAW

General Information

Courses offered in the LL.M of American Legal Studies

The LLM in American Legal Studies is designed as a general overview of the legal system in the United States and is intended for foreign-trained lawyers who wish to become eligible to take the bar exam in the United States.

Students will be able to take courses including, but not limited to, the following:

Introduction to American Legal System	Constitutional Law	Civil Procedure
Legal Research and Writing	Professional Responsibility	Bar Exam Startegies and Skills

Courses offered in the LL.M in Technology, Innovation, and Entrepreneurship

The program curriculum places particular emphasis upon matters of privacy, cybersecurity, digital commerce, and financial technology. Students examine the interplay between technological innovation, complex legal doctrines and regulatory approaches, business and market models (both cutting-edge and traditional), and the various actors whose interests, perspectives, and goals affect the technology law landscape.

LLM students can choose from among a wide array of technology-related courses. Depending on the semester and availability, these may include:

Aviation and Space Law	Foundations of Privacy Law	Managing Privacy
Bioethics and the Law	Freedom of Expression: Social Media, Technology, and Other Modern Problems	Patent Law
Biomedical Law and Policy	Health Technology Law and Policy	Practical Skills for Technology and IP Licensing
The Business of Intellectual Property	Innovating the Built Environment	Privacy in Practice
Copyright Law	Intellectual Property	Professional Responsibility Technology Lab

Cybercrime: Law and Policy	International Intellectual Property	Technology Law and Public Policy
Cybersecurity Planning	Internet Law and Digital Commerce	Trademark Law
E–Discovery	Internet Platforms: Policy and Litigation	Visual Litigation and Today's Technology
Energy Law and Policy		