Aim of the Seminar:
The Seminar on International Business Transactions provides students of the Full-Time Master in International Business Law with the chance to delve deeper into a specific and relevant area of international law. For one week professors from Georgetown Law Center, University of Pennsylvania and the City Law School will lecture focusing on specific subjects such as International Business Transactions, their Economic Structure and Investment Law. On the basis of this content, students will work in groups and present their conclusions.

The Seminar will be taught in English.

Seminar participants will have the chance to:
- learn about various aspects of International Business Law
- meet renowned professors from foreign universities
  (an excellent chance for international networking)
- work in teams and speak in public, two skills absolutely essential to any law profession.
