Course Goals

Course objectives include:

- developing critical reading skills, leading to a more accurate analysis and deeper understanding subject matter
- building clarity and precision in verbal communication
- gaining intellectual self-confidence through in-depth, reasoned discussions
- learning to perform effectively in verbal reasoning tests (often used by international companies and institutions in their recruitment processes)

Previous knowledge

No specific previous knowledge of the topic required.

Prerequisites

No specific prerequisites, beyond a level of English expected of students at this stage in their degree.

Teaching methodology

Classes are conducted in English and students are required to communicate in English with both the teacher and fellow classmates. The approach is interactive and demands full participation and commitment on the part of the individual student and of the group.

Description

Course contribution to program

This course will help students develop critical reading skills, as well as build confidence, clarity and precision in verbal communication. These skills are highly transferable to the demands of other courses, especially those conducted in English.
